NJROTC

Commander Kunkle
Chief Hess

The NJROTC is the start of special education, self development and opportunity for young men during their last three years of high school. It provides an extra step ahead toward confidence and leadership, toward valuable training in space age subjects, and toward eligibility for special privileges and programs with the Navy.

One of the exciting rewards of the NJROTC is the field trips that are available to the naval cadets.

McDowell Cadets participating in the first year program enjoyed a three-day visit to the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Florida in November. This was the highlight of the first semester's work and all the cadets worked hard in order to be selected for the trip. The cadets, 59 in all, and their sponsors were flown to Pensacola in a Navy C-118 4 engine transport aircraft.

Steering a tugboat in the Gulf of Mexico, climbing over the wings and viewing into the complex, instrumental cockpit of the Navy's latest jet training planes, touring the U.S.S. Lexington (CVT), the Navy's training carrier, and having plenty of good food and recreation during their free time gave the cadets an appreciation for the complexities and diversities of their great Navy.

Homecoming Week at McDowell High was a series of hectic affairs. In the midst of all the excitement, nine girls were chosen as the Homecoming Court. The five senior attendants were candidates for queen. Ballots were cast secretly, and the announcement of the queen came at half-time. As the girls came on the field escorted by their fathers, they waited anxiously . . . McDowell High School's first Homecoming Queen was Tanya Gayle.

Problem: How to have a successful Homecoming when we're all in a school for the first time.
Solution: Take 9 pretty girls, one spirited parade, a winning football team, and movin'dance, and a lot of enthusiastic kids with an ample amount of caring.
Result: Homecoming 1972-73

"Wherever they go, they reflect a measure of success."

Graduating unlocks the dreams of independence. It is a time to be lazy, when everything is to be done. It's a time of closeness, but distance.

It is a time of confusion and turmoil, when all are lost and bewildered. But to these, it was a time to be remembered.

Accepting one's responsibility begins here.

A Junior is

Eleven more worldly than ten not as prestigious as twelve.

Graduation
thinking of leaving but not yet concerned with it.

Worrying
about those books that lie collecting dust,
that might have held an answer.

Realizing time won't stop for even you and even while you're realizing, the seconds tick by.

Wondering which color of stone will make your ring look flashier.

Three years gone
one more to go HALLELUIA!

Filled with enthusiasm,
Added to the inconvenience,
To the tumult of yelling,
Screaming, cursing, and laughing,
With an occasional hour of studying.

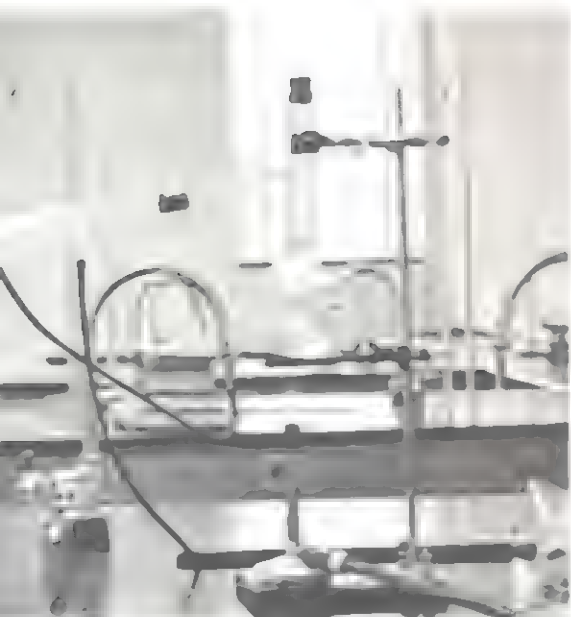

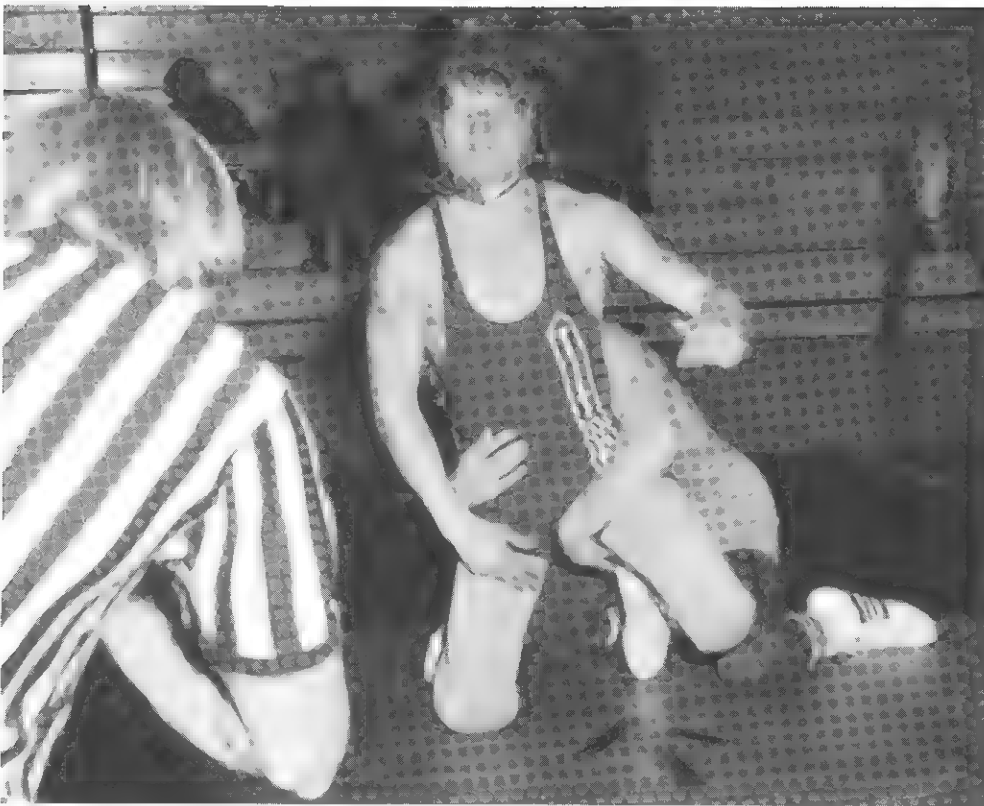

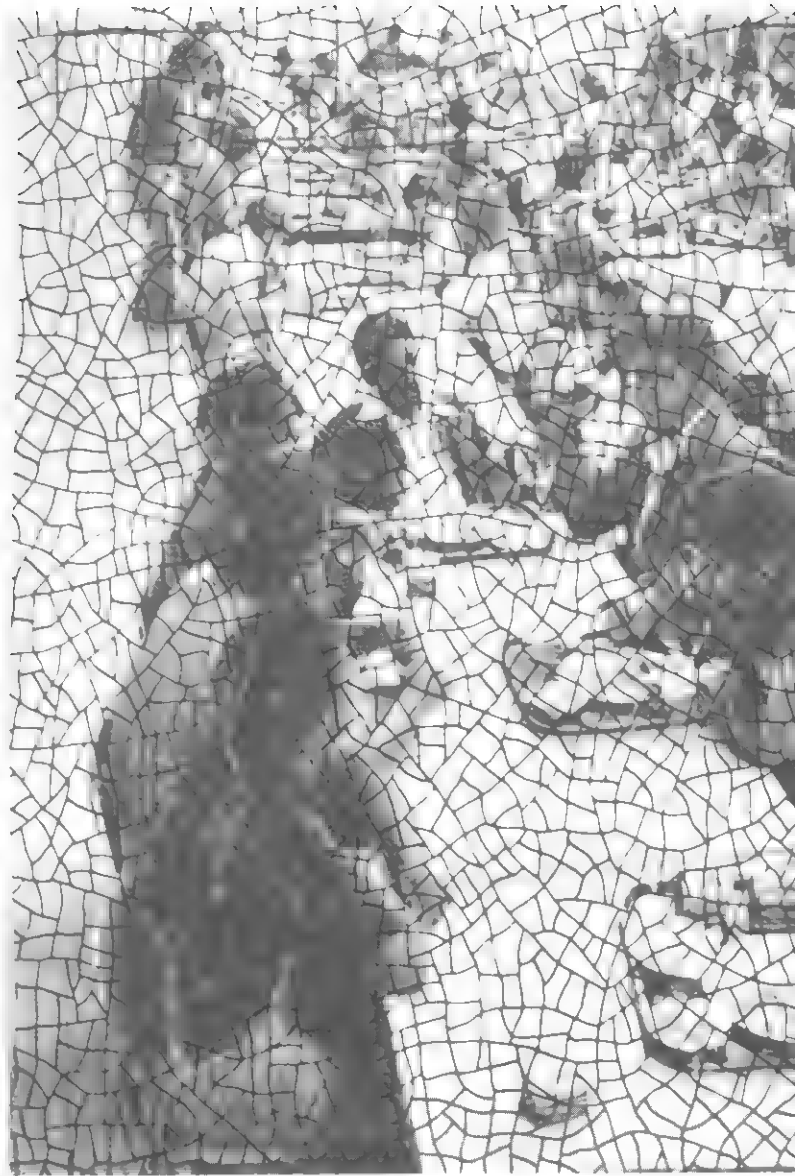

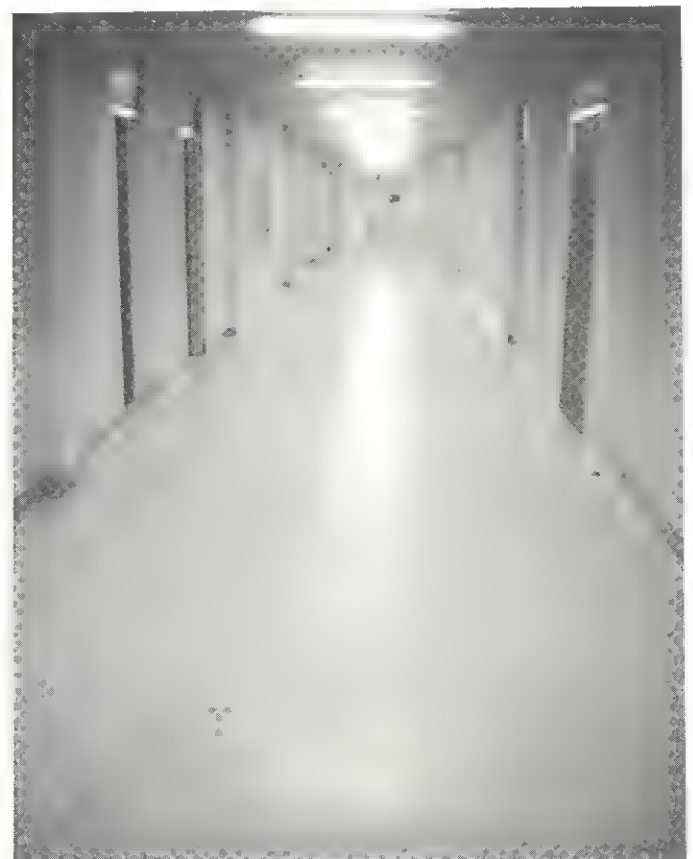

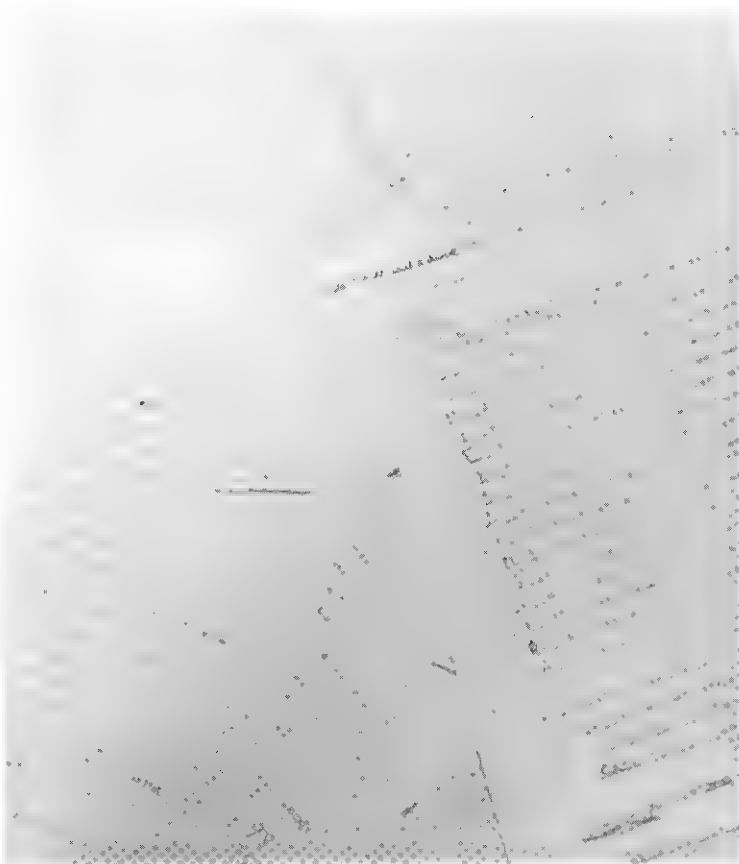

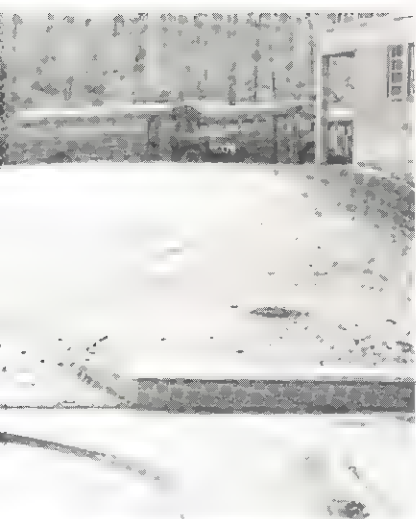

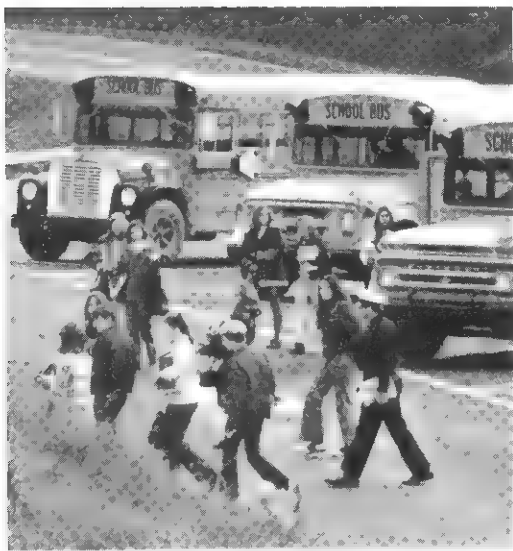

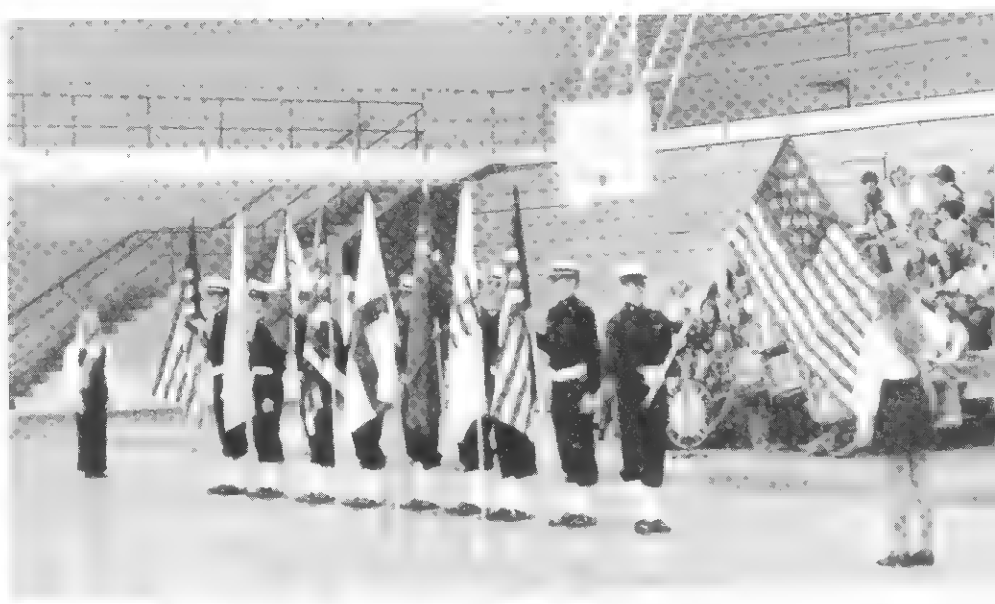

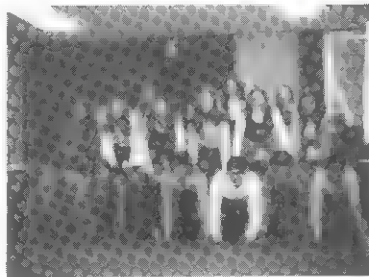

Amidst the mountains blue,
Our alma mater stands,
Where echoes still our dreams
Of peace throughout our land.

Though time may part our ways,
Our minds still turn to you,
McDowell High we raise our shields,
And pledge our faith anew.

At the first of the year, the two of us were given the honor of being co-editors of the annual. We knew it would be a job filled with many responsibilities, decisions and hard work. But days went on and before we knew it the annual was ready to send off for printing.

It was gone all too quickly. Nevertheless, we will not forget this experience with all the anxieties that go into making an annual.

So take it, read it, and enjoy it because it's yours.
